

Huron

Founded in 1877

The city of Huron is often called the cornucopia of the San Joaquin Valley. In the vast westside region of Fresno County, Huron is nine miles east of Interstate 5 and three miles south of Highway 198. Lassen Avenue (Highway 269) runs north/south through the city, providing easy access for transporting local produce to major markets. Fresno, the County seat, is sixty miles north of Huron, and San Francisco and Los Angeles are both within a three hour drive.

Huron's economy is primarily based in agriculture, but the local labor pool is sufficient to support many other types of industry, including manufacturing. The Huron Industrial Business Park and the associated "Targeted Approval" Team for priority projects are part of the City's effort to provide a solid, business-friendly foundation for economic diversification and prosperity. Businesses locating in Huron may seek to take advantage of numerous hiring incentives, tax credit programs, and low-cost development financing. Huron is also a designated HUBZone city, availing small businesses in the area of the chance to gain preferential access to federal procurement opportunities. Together these resources make Huron not only a cornucopia of agriculture but of business opportunity.
